PRESS RELEASE: LCCU goes Live! Your Pathway to Financial Freedom!

The Valley, Anguilla; Feb. 6, 2019: Liberty Co-operative Credit Union today announces that it is officially open for business. Operating in an ever-changing financial landscape, individuals and businesses in our island community need safe and viable financial options to move forward.

LCCU is not your traditional financial institution. Like other regional and worldwide credit unions, LCCU is a not-for-profit financial co-operative organized for the sole purpose of providing service to its members. LCCU recently joined the ranks of non-profit financial co-operatives and is one of the newer entrants in a growing credit union movement across the region and around the world.

It is important to note that credit unions are owned co-operatively and are democratically controlled by all members without regard to the amount of money that a member has in the credit union. Credit unions offer members a unique experience defined by the member-owners.

“We are thrilled to provide such a unique opportunity to join a grassroots movement” said Mitchelle Lake, LCCU’s Chairman. “Our service is rooted in strong member values. As a member, you are an owner and will be treated that way. As time progresses, LCCU will engage the latest technologies to help you get the most out of your membership. We are a call, email, or visit away”.

With a team of experienced, highly trained and seasoned professionals, LCCU will provide exceptional service, innovative products and services, and competitive financial solutions. The management team is proud to advise that its “members can rest assured knowing that their investment is secure at LCCU, insured, and compliant with existing and proposed legislation”.

Our combined management team has over 50 years of banking and credit union expertise and stands ready to serve, while ensuring that investments are managed in a safe and prudent manner. LCCU partners with local organizations and is expanding its regional alliances and network.

LCCU is duly incorporated, licensed and regulated in accordance with the laws, provisions and regulations of Anguilla. LCCU is also now registered as an NRSP with the AFSC.

Give us the opportunity to join you on the “Pathway to Financial Freedom”
